SMART SET AMAZED

Newport Society May War on Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

SUFFRAGE SCHEME IS BLAMED

Exclusive Set Who Paid $5 to Reb Elbows with the "Hot Poll" Now Wonders What It Is All About. "Lady Alva" Will Hold Another Meeting To-morrow.

Newport, Aug. 26.—Now that the novelty incident to the woman suffrage meeting held at Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont's villa, Marble House, on Tuesday, has worn off, the exclusive set here, which was inveigled into handing over $5 for the privilege of rubbing shoulders with the "hot poll," are asking what it is all about, and what has contributed to bring about this revolution on the part of "Lady Alva," as she is called.

Why, they ask, has she thrown open her doors to the public at so much a head, a public which she used to scorn, and even fight? It is recalled that not so many years ago she and the late Mr. Belmont even objected to excursionists hanging about the front of Belcourt, the villa which they then occupied, and tried to persuade the citizens of Newport to change the system of roads.

Because this was not granted the Belmonts threatened to leave this fashionable resort for good, but they came back.

Society Is Amazed.

Society is amazed at Mrs. Belmont's zeal in behalf of the suffrage cause, and threatens dire things to Lady Alva if she persists in holding the second meeting, as scheduled, on Saturday. Several members of her set have written her requesting her to abandon her plan to again open her villa to the public and hinting at war if she persists in her intentions.

Apparently they have forgotten, however, that Mrs. Belmont is a fighter who has won most of her battles.

According to some of her friends, she is sick of the society game, with its money dinners, and other scandals, and intends to do something which she considers worth while.

The influence of her daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, is understood to have contributed to this marvelous change in her mother from the aristocrat to the socialist, for the daughter's chief interest in London is now centered in the great social problem of the British metropolis. She is continually ministering to the wants of the poor and helping by every means in her power to uplift the lower classes.

All eyes are now turned on Mrs. Belmont. Society is anxious to see the outcome of Saturday's meeting, which is sure to take place.

FUNERAL OF C. F. CLARKE.

Services Will Be Held To-morrow for Aged Resident.

The funeral of Charles F. Clarke, for seventy-eight years a resident of this city, who died yesterday morning at his residence, 412 Third street southeast, will take place to-morrow morning from St. Peter's Catholic Church, Second and C streets southeast.

Mr. Clarke was born in St. Marys County, Md., November 11, 1822, and was a nephew of Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, the noted writer. He came to this city with his parents in 1850 and had resided here ever since that date.

He served during the civil war in the quartermaster's department of the United States army, and was later vice president of the old Columbia volunteer fire company of this city. The deceased is survived by his wife, four daughters, and one son, all of Washington.
